Course Name: The Mediterranean Diet: A Taste of Italy

Course Number: BMS 497

Credit hours: 1 (undergraduate)

Course Overview & Highlights

The Mediterranean diet is among the healthiest in the world, as evidenced by the long life expectancies in countries where this traditional diet is consumed.

We will visit places throughout north and central Italy where foods are grown, produced and prepared, and students will explore a variety of local specialties that are not part of the typical American diet.

In addition to food experiences that students would commonly expect in a foreign country, such as restaurants and street vendors, this program will feature:

- excursions to a parmesan cheese factory, a balsamic vinegar distillery, an olive oil press and truffle producer, and gelato and chocolate factories
- a cooking class and wine tasting in Bologna
- visits to local markets to learn how to purchase the freshest ingredients

The Program Director, Tour Director and experienced local guides also will provide an overview of the culture, art, architecture, religion, history, economy and agricultural practices of the region. Comprehensive sightseeing tours of Milan, Bologna, Florence and Rome are highlights of this program.

Course Focus & Objectives
The focus of this program is to study the Mediterranean diet and its relationship to health, as well as to gain an understanding of regional cultural and lifestyle factors that contribute to well-being and longevity.

Through a combination of pre-travel seminars and guided experiences in Italy, students will learn about the Mediterranean Food Pyramid; healthy fats and the foods that contain them; the Slow Food Movement; agricultural practices and how they relate to food availability in the region; health issues of concern to Mediterranean region residents; how the traditional Mediterranean diet and lifestyle contribute to health and how the average American could benefit from a change.

This course is designed for students who are majoring or interested in dietetics, nutrition, public health, agriculture, hospitality and restaurant administration, and other areas.

Course Schedule & Itinerary
Pre-travel Class Meetings (details TBA):
Early April 2012 - Addresses pre-travel details. Students will choose an educational topic for their final presentations. Topics may include sources and health benefits of monounsaturated fats, fruits and vegetables of the Mediterranean, health issues in the region, etc. Italian phrases will be presented.

Late April 2012 - Discussion of the Mediterranean culture and how it differs from ours; the historic sites we will visit; foods we will encounter and their nutritional value and production; typical menus; and traditional medicines and health beliefs. Italian phrases will be practiced.

May 2012 - Detailed discussion of travel preparations and plans. Passports will be viewed and final questions answered.

Please note: EF College Study Tours will coordinate arrangements for our educational experience in Italy. The following itinerary is subject to change.

Mon., May 21, 2012 - Kansas City, MO - Board overnight flight to Milan, Italy.
Tues., May 22 - Arrive in Milan, fashion and finance capital of Italy.
Wed., May 23 - Travel to Bologna, one of Italy’s culinary capitals, known for its famous dish, Tagliatelle al Ragù (a.k.a. Spaghetti Bolognese). En route, stop in Parma, birthplace of prosciutto ham and parmigiano cheese. Visit a cheese factory to learn about the time-honored traditions of producing authentic parmigiano. Next, stop in the Modena region to tour a Balsamic Vinegar Distillery and taste authentic Italian balsamic vinegar.
Thurs., May 24 - Cooking Class - Enjoy a wine tasting and learn to prepare several recipes of the Emilia-Romagna region. Visit a Gelato Factory.
Fri., May 25 - Travel to Florence. In the heart of Tuscany on the River Arno, this city is known for its remarkable architecture and the Renaissance art masterpieces that fill its museums and churches. Enjoy free time to explore world-class art galleries, markets and other attractions.
Sat., May 26 - Guided Tour of Florence - See Giotto’s Bell Tower, the Duomo cathedral and plaza, Ghiberti’s Gates of Paradise, the Piazza della Signoria and more. Later, watch artisans at work at a local leather workshop. Optional excursion to Pisa.
Sun., May 27 - Excursion to an olive press and truffle producer - The olive tree and olive oil are integral to the Mediterranean culture and diet. Likewise, truffles hold an important place in the history, folklore and fine cuisine of the region. Learn how olives and truffles are produced, and sample a variety of mouth-watering delicacies made from olives and truffles. Enjoy a meal prepared according to traditional, slow food methods at a local restaurant.
Mon., May 28 - Travel to Rome, the Eternal City. En route, stop in Perugia to tour the famous Perugina Baci chocolate factory. Also visit Assisi and the Basilica of St. Francis.
Tues., May 29 - Guided tour of the Vatican. See St. Peter’s Basilica, Michelangelo’s Pietà, the Vatican Museum and the Sistine Chapel. Guided sightseeing of Rome, including the ancient Roman Forum, the Colosseum, the Pantheon, the Piazza Venezia, Trevi Fountain and more.
Wed. May 30 - Free time in Rome - Explore fascinating historical and cultural landmarks, fashionable shops and authentic Italian food!
Thurs. May 31 - Board return flight from Rome to KCI.

Course Requirements:
Students must fulfill the academic requirements for the course as outlined below:
